They are not so exclusive. Ex-Con when ha tires of them, and lets them go to the bad. Then, too, nearly all the Mormons who are not foreigners are Northern people, born and raised next door to school houses, an exceedingly small percentage being from the South. Yet, because two or three Mormon preachers have recently made a few converts in Alabama, the New York Herald on his second trip since the inauguration. says: "What is most needed in Alabama is popular education. A few school houses will settle the fate of the Mormon missionary. Where there are brains there are no Mormons. The two don't go together." Better Mormons than unlimited divorce; but school houses wont stop either; nor will they impart brains.

SENATOR SHERMAN, in his speech, during the executive session of the Senate yesterday, in favor of the confirmation of Mr. Halstead as minister to Germany, took the ground that the press should not be muzzled, and that what Mr. Halstead, as the edi or of a Cincinnati newspaper, may have said of the private character of certain Sepators should not be allowed to interfere with the Senate's high duty to the people of confirm ing a nomination made by the President. And yet the same identical Mr. Sherman, less than four years ago, led the opposition to the confirmation of Mr Button, the editor of a Lynchburg newspaper, because he had criticised the public words and actions of the same and certain other Senators. But consistency in Mr. Sherman's life is made conspicuous by its absence.

jection rather than withdrawsl. "Then," remarked Mr. Sherman, "it will be rejection." Some of the republican Senators are so much wrought up by the reading of Mr. Halstead's denunciation of them that they say they would vote against confirming the nominations of Reid and New if those nominations were taken over again. A great many of the Virginia republicans who came here with the certain expectation of getting an office have gone home sadly disappointed and in no good humor with the powers that be. Those who remain are talking about holding a conference to night, to try to settle the diff-rences between the Mahone and the anti Mahone members of their party, at least as respects federal patronage, and there to make a united de mand upon the administration for Virginia's just share of the offices, and if refused, to know the reason why. One of them this morning introduced another to a friend in this city as "socially a democrat, but other wise a republican." Among them is Mr. Lewis Marshall of Orange county who is another of the many applicants for the place ginia. General Mahone is still here, and as exclusive as ever. Ex-Senator Rid gressman Gaines, who wants an internarevenue collectorship, when jokingly told by a democratic acquaintance that General Mahone had picked out another man for that place and would not endorse his, Gaines's, papers, replied, the real trouble was that the General wanted him to sign his. Mr. Moffatt started to argue with the man, but was stopped with the information that it was useless, and he had but two mirutes which to fill out the check before him for $21,000 if he desired to live. Mr. Moffatt, left his office, and with the man behind him with the revolver partially concealed under his coat and with the muzzle almost against with the request that the check be immediately cashed. They then remarched into Mcffatt's office without attracting the attention of the 15 or 20 clerks who were busy at work within two feet of where they passed. After they had remained in the private of fice three or four minutes the robber informed Mr. Moffatt that they were wasting time, and that he had better step to the door and motion his teller to come in, which he did. Mr. Moffat arrived at police headquarters about four o'clock, and after a glance at the prisoner said he was not the man, and he was immediately relessed. The prisoner proved to be a well known business man by the name of Clark.

The chief of police has offered a reward of $2,500 for the arrest of the robber and gives the following description: "The man's age is 32, height 5 feet 8 inches, swarthy complexion, weight 140 pounds, heavy brown mustache, much sunburned, derby hat, light brown overcost, wears long linked, plated watch chain," The excitement over the affair is intense.

Two of the German vessels, the Eber and Adler, are a total Henderson, of Missouri; Cornelius N. Bliss, loss. Every vessel in the harbor is ashore except the English man of-war Calliope, which got to sea. The Vandalia lost four officers, namely: Captain Schoomaker; Paymaster Arms; Lieutenant of Marines, Sutton; Pay Clerk John Roche, and 39 men. The Nip-ic lost seven men. All were saved from the Trenton. The majority of the Georgia. Trenton's and Vandalia's crews was ashore, the Nipsic's was on board. All stores possible were saved. The German men of war that additional charges have been preferred Adler and Eber are totally lost. The O'ga was beached, but may be saved. The German loss of life is estimated at 96. Later advices received here regarding the hurricane say the storm swept the Island on the 16 h inst. All the war ships attempted to put to sea, but only the English steamer Calliope succeeded in getting out, and sailed for Sidney, Australia. Merchant vessels suffered severly. The German bark Peter Godeffrey, one other bark and seven coast ers were wrecked and four persons were BERLIN, Mar. 30 -Advices received by storm raged during the 16th and 17th instant. Twenty persons from the Eper and fif ty five from the Adler were drowned. The O ga was stranded, but her crew were saved. All the merchant vessels anchored at Samoa foundered.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30.-Captain Selfridge, U. S. N., says the harbor of Apia, like all Pacific Island harbors, is formed by a coral reef encircling the island at a short distance from the shore. The an chorage space available for men-of-war is contracted, being about 1,000 feet wide at the mouth of the barber. The bottom is sandy, affording slight hold for an anchor, and the harbor is exposed on the north. Oa each side of the entrance are coral reefs which are awash at high water, and are surrounded by shoals. Hurricanes or cyclones at Apia are usually from the south west and revolving in the harbor tends to force vessels on the rugged reefs or rough shores.

It is the opinion of Admiral Harmony that the English man-of-war owed her escape to the fact that she had steam up and was enabled to push out to sea. The number of vessels lying in the small harbor was a ments for a meeting of the bar in memory of June, and Capt. Samuel Hodges chosen source of danger to them individually, for if of the late Justice Matthews. Gen. Eppa one dragged her anchors she would very Hunton was among those present. Secretary Tracy could not see cause to condemn any one. The officers in command of the vessels were competent men and had doubtless adopted all proper precautions against disaster, but these hurricanes, which assumed cyclonic proportions, were simply irresistible as was proved by the extent of the loss of vessels.

Naval Constructor Hichborn save the renton, which was Admiral Kimberly' flagship, was the best wooden vessel in the ted just before she sailed.

Capt. Richard W. Meade says the English man of war may have had steam up and put out to sen, by far the safest course. A ship well out at sea is safe in such a gale: but one of those terrific north winds at Apia is bound to drive everything that stays in harbor ashore.

The Trenton was launched in New York in 1877. She was ship rigged, 253 feet long, drew 20 feet 6 inches water, and was 3 900 tons displacement, and was a very speedy vessel. She had 420 officers and men aboard when she sailed from home.

The Vandalia was built at the Boston navy yard in 1876 She was 216 feet long, drew 17 feet 3 inches water, and was of 2,100

The Nipsic was a vessel of the old war navy, but after six years repairing at the Washington navy yard, emerged in 1879 as a practically new vessel, little but the old McCarthy also sulogized Mr. Bright's politkeel remaining. She was bark rigged, 185 ical life, Mr. McCarthy speaking in place of feet long, drew 14 feet 3 inches, and dis.
